

InsPro Technologies Corporation Announces Aon Affinity is in Production with InsPro Enterprise

Radnor, PA – May 19, 2011 – InsPro Technologies Corporation (OTC Bulletin Board: ITCC), a leading software innovator of flexible, comprehensive insurance solutions for a wide range of group and individual products, announced today that Aon Affinity is now in production with InsPro Enterprise for administration and management of its entire life and health portfolio.

The conversion has enabled improved access to customer data, comprehensive reporting, and customer self-service for Aon Affinity.

“Improving our technology platform to support our life and health clients was a key initiative for our organization,” said William Pagan, vice president of client delivery with Aon Affinity. “We’re always striving to provide our clients with enhanced service, and the selection of InsPro Enterprise and close collaboration with the dedicated InsPro team made it possible to meet our very aggressive 12 month implementation schedule.”

The project included the conversion of four existing administrative platforms to the single InsPro solution platform, supporting Aon Affinity’s life and health associations, numerous products, and policyholders.

“The conversion of just one policy administration system is a significant challenge. When we knew we were facing the consolidation of four systems, choosing the right technology platform and partner became even more critical,” added Jim Pitonyak, senior vice president and CIO with Aon Affinity. “Our relationship with InsPro and the quality and commitment of our respective teams made this success possible and we could not be more pleased with the results.”

“We congratulate the Aon Affinity team for the successful launch of their InsPro Enterprise production environment. We appreciate their confidence in and commitment to InsPro Enterprise and their recognition of the contributions from the InsPro team that helped make this project a success,” said InsPro Technologies, LLC president and CEO Bob Oakes. “It is gratifying to see our technology delivering value to a world class organization like Aon Affinity and providing them with a platform that will continue to support their aggressive growth strategy moving forward.”
